

CONTRIBUTIONS

Authors should send the electronic version of their contribution as well as a hard copy to the Journal's address: filneot@elalmendro.org. Since modern Mac versions provide easy PC-conversion, manuscripts should be written preferably in PC and with Word word-processor.

For non-Latin characters, contributors are requested to employ Unicode fonts, preferably MgOldtime, or, in case this is not possible, SGreek, SPionic and STiberian fonts. For more detailed information, see www.bsw.org (Instructions for Contributors).

In case the editors consider it necessary, authors will be sent proofs of their contributions in a pdf file by email. As it is assumed that articles submitted for publication are in their definitive form, no major changes are possible at this stage. The (normally) very few errata should be typed in a Word document, indicating page, paragraph and line, and sent by email.

Bibliographical quotations should follow the Elenchus Bibliographicus Biblicus standard form.

Authors will receive a copy of the issue and a pdf file of their contribution free of charge.
